From a summary of the foreign intelligence received by the steamer Arctic, and published in the New York Herald, we derive the following:

the New York Heraid, we derive the following:

The opinions of the London press vary in regard to the probabilities of war. The Times labors to prove that Russia should be let alone. It also places in a conspicuous place, but without comment, a paragraph stating that the widow De Leuchtenberg, eldest daughter of the Czar, as also the Duke of Mecklenberg Strelitz and his wife, who is niece to Nicholas, are on the eve of visiting England. The Daily News cries shame on the vacillation that has been shown by the British Cabinet, and hopes that France, at least, will stand by the Sultan. The News adds:

"But there is another power of whom little has hitherto been said or thought in reference to this momenous question. The United States has recently evinced a disposition to sympathize with the nations whose interests and aspirations are alike opposed to aristocratic and dynastic oppression. Between Russia and America there have hitherto been few occasions for the open manifestations of that antagonism which is instinctive and incradicable in their opposing systems of religious and political life. America is the land of religious equality; Russia of sectarian intolerance and persecution. America is the home of demogratic quality; Russia of sectarian intolerance and per ecution. America is the home of democrati secution. America is the home of democratic freedom; Russia of military aristocracy, captained by military despotism. America is rapidly adopting in her commercial intercourse the principles of free trade; Russia labors incessantly to destroy, wherever her withering influence extends, every germ of competition. Turkey has already given proofs of her earnest desire to liberalize her commercial and religious policy; and the Cabinet at Washington will undoubtedly be sustained by the cheering approval of the whole Anglo-Saxon race on both sides of the Atlantic, if at this critical juncture they prove themselves worthy of our common origin."

The Morning Chronicle of the 11th instant has an editorial narrating the singular fact, if true, an editorial narrating the singular fact, if true, that Russian emissaries are spread throughout the northern dependencies of China, endeavoring to convert the allegiance of the Buddists to the sovereignty of Nicholas. The information is derived through French missionaries.

RUSSIA.

Prince Gortschakoff, the Russian commanderin-chief of the invading armies, has addressed the following proclamation to the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia:

ment—that Russia had narrowed its demand to the simple signature of a note, which, except in what particularly concerns the Holy Places, did not contain, in respect of the general guarantee claimed in favor of the church, anything more than a simple confirmation of what Russia has long possessed—that if this demand were not comlong possessed—that if this demand were not com-plied with within eight days by the Porte, measures more decisive than simple rupture of relations would be taken; and in making this ultimatum, Russia has given particular explanations to the great powers—had especially requested of France and England not to complicate the difficulties of the situation by their attitude. This two-fold request was unheeded; Turkey refused the ultimatum, and the two maritime powers not having thought fit to defer to the considerations recom-mended to their serious attention—they had sent their fleets into the waters of Constantinople. By that advanced attitude the two powers have placed Russia under the weight of a threatening demonstra-tion, which, as they were forewarned, has added new complications to the crisis. Consequent on this refusal and this demonstration the Russian troops stationed in Bessarabia had entered the principalities, not to make an offensive war upon the Porte, but to substitute for moral guarantee a ment of five millions of piastres due to Austria, material guarantee, and to re-establish the equilibrium of the reciprocal situations by taking a military position, inasmuch as Russia regards the presence of the fleets in Turkish waters as a maritime occupation. But, further than this, Russia has no intention to hold the position longer than the rhonor and security require, and as soon as data do not seem to warrant so important an ashas no intention to hold the position longer than her honor and security require, and as soon as Turkey shall have accorded satisfaction, and the pressure exercised by the two powers shall cease, the Russian troops shall return within their own confines. But Russia does not in the least conceal how full of meaning is the attitude which she takes, and what consequences may follow from it should the Turkish government compel her to come out of the limited and narrow circle in which she desires to remain: but the position into which she desires to remain; but the position into which Turkey thrusts us (Russia) by pushing things to an extreme, leaves no other course open. The rest of the despatch is devoted to special pleading of the justice and moderation of the demands of Russia, and the disinterested and fraternal friend ship she feels for Turkey. And these considera-tions Mr. —— is charged to represent to the government he is accredited to, under the signa-ture of reach Paris and London on the 13th (day of Arctic's sailing from Liverpool) or 14th instant. Until them it could not be known with certainty what decision the Porte had taken on learning that the Russians had passed the Pruth, and whether it had appealed to the assistance of its allies. Should it have done so, the probability is that the allied feet would have passed the Dardanelles before the arrival of the last instructions from the two governments. A private despatch from Vienna, however, states that the ambassadors of France, England, and Austria, at Constantinople, on the news that the Russians had crossed the Pruth, requested an audience of the Sultan, and asked him not to demand that the allied fleets should enter the Dardanelles. The Sultan complied with the recommendation, and confined himself against the invasion of the territory.

The following curious paragraph comes from Vienna, July 3:

"Great depression prevails in the Turkish captal, but the movements of the troops, and the unceasing coming and going of English, American, French, Dutch, and Turkish vessels, give an unnatural animation to the city."

The Constantinople correspondent is inclined to attribute the friendly professions of the Government of the United States to the astonishing success of the American missionaries among the Mussulmen.

A private letter of the same date confirms a startling piece of intelligence. "A very high personage [quere, who—Czar or Sultan?] is said recently to have exhibited symptoms of a terrible malady which is believed to be in the family, and it is even asserted that the propriety of nominating a proxy for a time is already discussed. The rumor that there are two greatrival parties in Russia gains strength. The old Russian faction has at its head two Grand Dukes (Constantine, and prohably a younger brother) and the synod. The so-called German party, which is headed by Count Nesselrode and his colleagues, represents the intelligence and civilization of the nation."

Our correspondent thinks that the statement ch Paris and London on the 13th (day of Arc-

JUST RECEIVED, two superior instruments, with and without the iron frame, from the above celebrated manufactory. They were selected, in person, from a large importation direct from the original manufacturer, and as to superior beauty of tone, delicacy of touch, and interior workmanship, we challenge competition to produce their equals. These instruments we will warrant, if required, for any reasonable number of years; but judges will concede that instruments like these we offer need no better guarantee than is presented on first trial and inspection. They were made expressly for this market, being varnished instead of polished. All persons desiring to hear, see, or purchasea really g ood plan will please give the subscribers a call.

We offer for sale very reasonably also a superior five octave melodeon, piano style, with the swell attachment. Terms moderate. Second-hand pianos taken as part pay for new ones.
